Seven long years is quite enough time for BSRE to complete the Draft Environmental impact statement. They have resolved only one of the 42 issues and have not responded to 21 of the issues. Why has it taken seven years for “professional” to provide the information requested? This should send an immediate “red flag” to everyone involved in the decision-making process.

Another major concern I have is that BSRE has yet to provide an adequate traffic report. There has been no agreement on a mitigation plan between Shoreline and BSRE and the mitigation offered by BSRE will not improve the traffic flow nor will it guarantee that emergency vehicles ingress and egress will not be affected in negative way. And, how can BSRE assert that 15% of trips from Point Wells will be by bus? There isn't even transit service to the site and BSRE has not proved evidence that there will be.

There is no reason to believe that BSRE will be any more forthcoming in providing the information that has been requested over the past years if another delay is given. I say three strikes and you are out.
