Fall and winter flooding on Mann Road, Ben Howard Road, and 311th Avenue SE, south of Sultan, is a challenge for area residents. Snohomish County Public Works has completed a feasibility study for this area to understand where the roads flood, to what extent, and how the levels of the Skykomish River correlate with the flooding.

Open House

Join us at our Open House on Thursday, December 8 at Mountainview Christian Fellowship anytime between 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Come view informational maps, ask questions about proposed improvements, and share your comments on the proposal.

Proposed Improvements

This project is in the preliminary stages of design. The improvements being proposed are:

- Raise the road elevation at two locations on Ben Howard Road and one on Mann Road at Devil's Elbow.
- Install culverts at each of the locations to allow water to flow under the road and decrease flooding potential.

Timeline

Currently in preliminary stages of design, construction is expected to begin in the spring of 2020 and finish in the fall of 2020.
